

A.F.U. Rejects Amalgamation By Estimated 2-1 Majority

supporting the resolution that it provided that "any group membership may be terminated by a three-fourths vote of the board of directors after 30 days' notice of such contemplated action and opportunity given for the presentation of an oral or written statement to the board by the member organization concerned."

The text of the resolution which brought the amalgamation issue before the convention follows: "Resolved that this convention approve the amalgamation of the A.F.U. with the U.F.A. and A.F.A. under the proposed draft constitution as presented by the joint committee. This resolution has been set in by Pollen head No. 813 district No. 1, district No. 12, and Hainesboro local No. 281."

Adoption of the resolution had been moved by Hendy G. Young of Mill and seconded by L. E. Rhana of Magrath, both directors of the A.F.U.

Discussion opened Wednesday morning and was continued at the afternoon and night sittings. It was resumed Thursday morning and wound up by being voted on at an aggregate of 13 hours' debate.

Asks Show-Down

When the debate was resumed Thursday afternoon, a delegate called for a final show-down on the resolution. "We have spent a day and a half on this resolution and this convention is costing $200 a day," he said.

Re: Baller, a director of district No. 2, said there was no doubt about the honesty or integrity of any official of the A.F.U. He said there was no such thing as being overzealous and losing sight of the main idea.

The speaker said the force which controls the distribution of the farm products virtually controls the life of the farmer. He said the force of the draft constitution "constitutes placing us under that force and I am opposed to it."

C. D. Furr of Stony Plain, director of district No. 3, said he was for amalgamation if it was wanted by all and not merely by half the A.F.U. members.

Attend Annual Meeting of Alberta Law Society in Calgary

"No matter which way you go I still will be in this union," he declared.

"You have not got unity in this meeting and are not ready to be set anywhere," he said. "I recommend that you take this resolution and go into the matter thoroughly. Contact the co-operative and find out what they have a position to take."

"I've got unity as to where we want to go first and not find it sooner," J. C. Kerns, Asst. director of district No. 10, said. "We have to get together and get together fast."

Not only was the country losing its economic standing but it also was losing farmers and farming country. The U.F.A. and A.F.A. were the farm land and two-thirds of this was being lost.

Favors Amalgamation

"We should look into the problem of food conservation and develop food we should more," he said.

He added that people were planning to go out of farming when the wheat contracts run out.

Delegate Kerns said he was in favor of amalgamation and this view was held by the vast majority of delegates from his area.

George Kropinski, consultant director for district No. 1, said he was opposed to the draft constitution under the present set-up.

will agree as time passes and new circumstances affect a western agriculture, already making an appearance, add new burdens to the farmer. He said he requested the vote result but "so far as we are concerned we are prepared to vote in harmony with the A.F.U. executive as we have in the past."

He hoped unity of western farmers would not be too long delayed, despite this decision in Edmonton.

At the polls about 1,000 "rising," "presumed dead," no less than 10,000 are Canadian. They lie in unknown graves scattered across all the countries of northwest Europe. In Italy and the Balkans, and so far away as Burma, many of them too, have never known any grave but the fast-growing jungle, or a remote mountain ravine, or a remote island.

Some of the details of this situation were made available to the public by the A.F.U. executive. It was reported that the search was made Thursday by Group Captain Peter Burgess of the Royal Air Force, chief of the missing search and recovery service for Commonwealth air forces.

Tip to last July, about 9,000 missing men had been recovered and the deaths in action confirmed. Group Captain P. Burgess said that if half of these 40,000 are ever tracked down, a good job will have been done. More than 300 officers and men, including more than 100 Canadian working in teams, are scouring northwest Europe for traces of thousands who died in the services there.

Graves of missing airmen are "unusually" there throughout the Ruhr, he said. Thousands of Canadian graves do not forget the enemy's defenses over "Hampshire Valley."

They said where graves may be found, where the wreckage of aircraft, possibly still lies, come from residents of the districts involved. Information is given by officials of the British War Graves Commission, remote areas, and is gathered by the war graves commission, making inquiries everywhere.

Group Capt. Burgess listed the "three don'ts" of his department. They don't expect to find anybody alive. They don't expect to find more than half the men who are listed as missing. They don't want anybody to be misled by "lost" men. They don't know of a single case of "lost" men. They don't know of a single case of "lost" men. They don't know of a single case of "lost" men.

Asks End Control On Farm Products

TORONTO, (CP)—Removal of all price controls on farm products was recommended Thursday night by Ontario Agriculture Minister Kennedy at the convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

"The sooner we take off all controls the better it will be for the farmer," said C. L. Kennedy.

"If the controls were off, the farmer would have certainty of mind. We cannot produce the maximum yield as long as there are controls. Removal of controls would be the best thing for the farmer, the consumer and the province as a whole. It would also finally end the farmer's 'feeling' the law of supply and demand."

Meyer Clemency Puzzles Campbell

MONTREAL, (CP)—No explanation has ever been given why the death sentence given Maj.-Gen. Meyer was commuted, the Kitchener club had Thursday in an address by Clarence Campbell, National Hockey league president who, as Lt.-Col. Campbell, was assistant prosecutor at the trial of the Nazi general for the murder of Canadian soldiers.

Never, whose commutation of sentence was announced by Canadian military authorities, how it was a life term in Dorchester, N.B., penitentiary where he is working in the library.

Mr. Campbell, a former Edmonton lawyer said the decision of the Canadian court that sent Meyer and ordered his execution by shooting was confirmed, his appeal and application for clemency were refused. The place of execution had been changed from the gallows to the firing line, the general was treated in his duty when the commutation came.

"I am not going to offer any comment," he said.

Meat Shortages Hit Many Cities

TORONTO, (CP)—Many Canadian cities in Vancouver, Toronto, and Montreal, are suffering from meat shortages. The meat situation continues to worsen as the weather moves from coast to coast, and there is no undisputed explanation for the sudden scarcity.

Ontario's Agriculture Minister, T. L. Kennedy said that the situation was more serious in the country north than in the city. He said that the shortage was created by price controls on meat.

But the price control angle was subject to dispute. Mrs. Ann Arnold of Toronto, president of the Housewives' Consumers association and housewife who held a mass protest meeting Monday. She said the shortage was artificial—all part of a plan to end government control.

Eaton's director of meat, W. H. Winkler, said that the situation was more serious in the country north than in the city. He said that the shortage was created by price controls on meat.

2 B.C. Claimants Calm Over Baronetcy Dispute

VANCOUVER, (CP)—The tangled web of rival claims to a British baronetcy, which has been the subject of a major in Melbourne, Australia, remained untroubled Friday.

But neither Houston John Stuart, 10, nor his brother, Harry Stuart, 8, appear worried about the outcome. Both are confident the British baronetcy committee will recognize their claims.

Meanwhile, the third claimant, Mrs. Charles Stuart, 62, also is apparently waiting quietly for the decision of the baronetcy committee. She is far from the ancestral manor in the Barons of Camperdown, Scotland, the eighth baronet, 85-year-old Sir Houston is contentedly spending his declining years with his married brother, Lord Stuart, in Vancouver's Killarney district.

Canadian Shipyards Thriving Despite End of War Work

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada's shipbuilding industry, having as never before in peacetime, started 1947 with a backlog of orders totalling around $100,000,000.

Though the number of riveting machines has fallen off from its wartime peak, steel-ship yards in the west and east and on the Great Lakes are still humming busily, and authorities look for little diminution in that pace for two or three years.

Though a good proportion of the contracts are for Canadian construction, foreign orders bulk largely in the current program. Practices alone has about $70,000,000 worth of ships on the stocks in this country. The Netherlands and Brazil have a number of craft under construction.

Many Foreign Inquiries

From a dozen or more foreign countries have come inquiries looking to Canadian yards. Some have had to be turned down by Canadian yards because they stipulated completion times, and most Canadian yards have their hands full catering up with jobs already contracted for they hold possibilities for the future.

A big potential order is one of about $25,000,000 from China. The Ming Shing Industrial company, which operates a big fleet of vessels on the Yangtze river, has negotiations in progress for 15 vessels, 40 lighters, and landing equipment. Contracts for the vessels to be delivered, first of them between Canada and China, are expected to be signed shortly. With financial aid from the Export Credits Commission, it is understood the bulk of this order will go to west coast yards.

French Order Large

A sizeable fleet of ships is called for in the French order alone. The latest group contracts, placed late last year, are for 12 cargo-carryers and 10 barges of various types. The Canadian government, through the Commerce Credit Corporation, is financing the French order.

Other foreign orders in hand include the construction of four 7,000-ton cargo liners for Brazil, while in prospect are orders from Argentina and Chile. However, the deals have been closed with the latter two countries.

Besides the foreign business a considerable amount of shipbuilding is underway for Canada's own merchant fleet. Canadian National Steamships has a $3,000,000 freighter building at North Vancouver for the West Indies run, a 7,000-ton motorship on the Atlantic at Lunenburg, Que., and other Canada firms have similar contracts.

Destroyers Still Building

Still under construction at Halifax are two Tribal class destroyers, remainder of the four-ship program started in 1944 during the war. It is not known when they will be completed.

On lines and other jobs in about 15 steel yards, about 35,000 workers are employed as compared with the 80,000 who went ship spinning off the back of the war ship during the war. This total is expected by men in the industry to drop to about 25,000 in the next year and remain at that figure for perhaps three years.

But even this figure is a far cry from the peak of the war years when the dominion steel ship construction industry was a busy infant employing 250,000 men.

Food Situation

WASHINGTON, (CP)—70 Canadians wondering how much help in food supplies Europe still needs from them, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations answers "perhaps a shade less than a year ago but still a lot."

Now that UNRRA is in the winding-up stage—although it still has some funds to spend—said that the U.S. government has made it plain it will have no more part in the "soup kitchen" type of international relief. It expects the hungry European countries will have to rustle for themselves in finding the food they need.

The International Emergency Food Council, a relatively new organization, will handle the allocation of stocks available for the actual purchase. That is up to the individual governments. How much they need to purchase is set in the U.S.'s latest appraisal of world food conditions.

Little Improvement

80c John Boyd, director-general of F.A.O., says in an economic study. "The food position for the world, 1946 through 1947, shows very little improvement over 1946."

"There was a little increase in the harvest in the devastated countries, and a bumper harvest in the Americas. But the latter has been largely offset by increased consumption in the producing countries and by the fact that the world's food stocks are much less at the end of the 1946 harvest than in 1945."

"The situation was complicated, also, by the termination of UNRRA."

Position Still Critical

"Thus the position between now and the harvest is still critical with food supplies available to the people in many parts of the world standing at about half the amount available to the well-fed peoples. The quality of these diets is also poor because of their low protein and fat content."

"Not only are the conditions of diet and health and death rates remain high the working capacity of the people is so low on these diets that it seriously delays rehabilitation."

"Time conditions must be a matter of the utmost concern to all governments."

"These conditions must be a matter of the utmost concern to all governments and even greater generally on the part of the exporting countries so that they can ship more food to the needy."

Average Remains Low

"The report, issued today, on the average nutrition and health in Europe are a little better than a year ago although there is a few limited areas."

Possibility of Raise

In Flax Prices Seen

WINNIPEG, (CP)—Possibility of an increase in the price of flax in western Canada to increase production of flax oil has been foreseen here by Sydney Foreman, manager of the western division, Canada Plant Company.

Mr. Foreman told the Lams club a price increase had stimulated flax production on the prairie last season and "it will no doubt be necessary for the government again to increase the price from $12.50 a bushel."

"A world shortage of flax oil existed in any surplus Canadian production could be of better value used for the exchange of other essential oils from foreign countries," he said.

Reveal R.A.F. in Greece Faced Axis Swarms with Only 80 Planes

LONDON, (CP)—The R.A.F. heroics but determined that the defence of Greece against Italian and German forces five years ago was widely recognized by the world.

Mr. Winston Churchill, D.F.O., who commanded the R.A.F. in Greece when it withstood the Italian attack and then crushed the German assault, said the R.A.F. actions the losing struggle of the outnumbered forces.

His conclusion is that Britain's decision to aid Greece was "the right one and in accordance with the best tradition of our race."

In Greece the R.A.F. had a minimum force which had to be operated according to a strict plan "in order to produce any result."

"As our bombing force was inadequate, our policy had to be to contain the enemy's efforts as long as possible at points where the resistance was most tenacious, thus ensuring the utmost embarrassment," he said.

"Thus we were able to do in Athens because Italian, German and Axis were only some four or five to one against us. When, however, we had to face the full force of the German attack, in addition, the odds became too great in the enemy's favour of our planes and crews."

D'Almeida said the R.A.F. had only 80 planes at the time the Germans attacked, compared to 800 German fighters and 300 Italian planes.

The R.A.F. had difficulty in the best way to employ a small force to bomb Italian bases and supply lines rather than the battlefront. When the Greeks launched an offensive to drive the Italians from Albania early in 1941, D'Almeida led the R.A.F. to take part which will great success in front-line battles to follow Greek morale.

D'Almeida tells of the difficulties of trying to coordinate the use of air, sea, and land forces in the campaign against the German advance until he was killed, severely attacked by Axis forces.

The chief clerk of the R.A.F. headquarters was examined.

So May it Be

In the first eight days of 1947 there were four traffic fatalities in Vancouver, one every second day. Weather conditions of course had a lot to do with this grim record and may have been chiefly responsible.

By way of contrast, there were no fatalities on Edmonton streets during that period. The point of the comparison is not that Vancouver motorists were careful, but that Edmonton motorists have obviously been exercising caution.

No other explanation fits, because weather conditions have been far from ideal for driving. Pavements covered with slush created circumstances in which only careful driving could keep the accident record down. And while Edmonton is the most motorized city in the west, the main intersections is comparable to that in Vancouver.

Plainly, a word of commendation is coming to Edmonton drivers for having observed traffic laws and the laws of good sense. And to Edmonton motorists for having given themselves a fair chance to keep from getting run over.

Continued care on the part of all concerned can make 1947 a year of relative safety on Edmonton streets. So may it be.

They Died in Jail

Calgary has had another case, the second in the past few months, of a man picked up by the police as intoxicated dying in the cells. As a result, Calgary officials are now considering new rules for police to govern routine when persons are taken into custody in a physically helpless condition.

This sort of thing is not peculiar to Calgary. It has happened in Edmonton. It has happened in communities with traffic frequency in almost every Canadian city.

A man or woman is found in an apparently sound condition from drink and is placed into a cell to "sleep it off." Perhaps the semi-conscious condition is not due to drink at all, perhaps it is a contributing factor. At any rate, the person sometimes dies, usually without any medical attention whatever, while the police are waiting for a return to sobriety.

This system is not good enough. It is entirely out of line with modern knowledge and human practice.

The truth is that any person unconscious from liquor, or from any other cause, is in a dangerous condition and requires immediate and skilled medical attention. To allow anyone, no matter what his condition, to "sleep it off" is a kind of medical neglect, to take a dreadful chance. Most will recover. But a percentage of them are not.

That is why every unconscious or semi-conscious person taken into police custody, drunk or otherwise, should be taken to a hospital immediately by a competent physician.

The public and the city authorities, in Edmonton as well as in Calgary, should insist upon it.

Not Interested

The governments of Ontario and Quebec do not seem to be interested in the proposed increase in freight rates. Neither has appointed committees to represent the interests of its province in the hearings being held by the Transport Commission.

One reason no doubt is that in the well settled and developed sections of those provinces the bulk of local freight is handled by the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterway. Cities and towns are relatively close together. The highways are good everywhere. Freight trains are comparatively few.

When an industry in Ontario or Quebec ships goods to points in the western provinces, it ships them by truck. When it sends goods to the west or to the maritimes it finds the distant buyer pays the freight.

This is the economic background of the disinterested of Premier Duff and Premier Dupont in the subject of railway freight rates. They would "shut" — and they don't.

But Ontario and Quebec are not the only provinces that are not interested in the subject. They are, just as really as the western or the maritime provinces. Their industries would collapse if the trains stopped running. The highways in the west and the east were cut off. What happened in the 1930's is the index to what would happen in these circumstances.

This being the case, the central provinces should be made to pay their fair share of the cost of keeping the railways in operation, by whatever means can be devised. If they continue to absent themselves from the freight rate hearings, the remaining provinces will have to take attention on ways and means to make them pay, directly or otherwise.

Stop The Stoppages

At Washington a committee of Republican Senators have tabulated proposals advanced by party representatives to make industrial disputes "lock-down" and "freeze" the national economy.

There are eleven suggestions in the list. Not all of these are likely to be become law, for a party program seldom if ever gets into the book itself. Three of the suggestions, however, are proposals to enforce the closed shop. Another would make arbitration compulsory in certain types of labor disputes.

These suggestions indicate the general trend of the lot, and show what the members who were elected in November are thinking on the subject of governing the economy. Some of the suggestions are radical, and they are, these grow out of the events of the past year and reflect the reaction to the economic situation.

The Congress to which majority members-elect went to show what phase of the "labor question" they intended to pursue. The consumers, very evidently, are demanding protection, not against labor, but against management, not against management, but against management, not against management, but against management.

They want the stoppages stopped. Consumers in Canada want the same thing. No person need defend himself that they don't. If they are less demonstrative that is only because they have suffered less than their neighbors.

But they have endured plenty, and they look to parliament to protect them against such things as the tie-up of the lumbering industry which left 4,000 unemployed housewives crowded Edmonton last fall and a similarly abysmal situation in every large centre across Canada.

Ottawa is not obliged to follow the legislative pattern outlined at Washington, if better or less obvious results can be found. But under obligation to stop arbitrary stoppages of essential production. The demand for this is as adamant in Canada as in the United States.

Should Work Both Ways

When a town spreads out into the country in England hereafter, the owners of the land affected will not be allowed to pocket all the increase in the land value.

Conversely, if one one puts up a factory and thereby raises the value of surrounding property, the owner will have to stand all the loss.

In the first instance the state will demand part of the increase. In the second case the state will compensate the property-owner commensurate with the value of surrounding property, the owner will have to stand all the loss.

This is the latest proposal of a bill to be put before parliament. That it will pass is pretty certain. Not only because the Government cannot afford to ignore a measure proposed by a majority of seats, but because former governments have planned similar adjustment measures, but did not bring them into effect.

Years ago a wave of increment-taking swept across Canada. It left laws on the statute books of Alberta and other provinces by which the provincial treasuries were empowered to collect a percentage of the profit when an owner sells a town lot for more than he gave for it.

But that bill, coming to London is different. There the Government is to "play the market" both ways. Those who profit from community development will be taxed. Those who suffer will be compensated.

In Canada the bill for increment is taxed. But property depreciation is not made up to the owners, even when the depreciation is due to the establishment of a business by consent of the municipal and provincial authority. There have been some glaring injustices in Edmonton of late.

Meeting to Start in March

Moscow Parley on Germany Blue Ribbon Event of 1947

(The German problem, and principally the effort to bring some order out of the chaos in which the collapse of Nazism left the country, will dominate the international situation in 1947 according to indications seen in this, the first dispatch of several from world capitals examining the outlook for the new year—Editor.)

(By Edward W. Beattie)

LONDON, Jan. 10.—(BUP)—The Moscow conference on Germany shaped up today as the blue ribbon event of 1947 in world affairs.

The year will determine the ability of the great powers to work together for peace, and the Moscow meeting beginning in March will set the tone for the entire year.

That was the consensus of qualified diplomatic quarters in London.

THEY FORSAW a continuation of the friction which strained relations among the big powers in 1946 and which 1947 negotiations would escape some of the bitterness and suspicion which permeated the Big Four meetings last year.

Despite all the outbursts and all the delays and suspicions, the powers did show in 1946 that, with patience on both sides, they could find common ground for agreement. They completed five peace treaties for satellite countries, and at the United Nations assembly in New York made definite progress toward a solution of the problem of arms control and restrictions. But the year's work was no more than a bare beginning.

FOUR MATTERS seemed most likely to produce clear-cut results in 1947. They were: Germany, the Balkans and Eastern Europe, the Far East, disarmament, and atom control and with them the key problem of the Big Four's right of veto.

The German problem fell into two parts. Both them must come before the council of foreign ministers at Moscow March 10. The first was agreement on the four zones of occupation which would make it possible to create some central German agency which could sign a peace treaty.

The second was the drafting of a treaty which would satisfy the mountain of Allied claims against Germany, establish the country as a weakling entity which would not continue to drain strength from the victors, and assure that the ability of Germany to start a new war is firmly under control.

THAT JOB was complicated not only by the east-west question which threatened to wreck the Paris conference, but also by the fundamental clash of Anglo-American policy with that of Russia on the one hand and France on the other.

The chief point of conflict with Soviet policy was on the Kremlin's demand for reparations from current German production—a principle which the United States and Great Britain oppose on grounds that it would ruin Germany's ability to produce for export and thus start paying her own way.

The second point of conflict seemed certain to develop on the political setup. Already the Anglo-American and Russian zones had

City Beneath City Yields Relics

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Jan. 10 (BUP)—The pot of gold isn't at the end of the rainbow in British Columbia's under the streets of New Westminster, along with a newspaper office, the remains of a sawmill and a section of a sewer pipe.

IN THE DAYS of the gold rush two deep ravines ran through the middle of the town, forming a valley in which many houses were located. After the "great fire of 1886," which leveled much of the business district, the valley was filled in and the town rebuilt on top of it.

But they neglected to remove from the ravines many objects which have since become increasingly valuable. Fascinating glimpses of life before the fire are revealed whenever excavations are made for new buildings, but townspeople think the best is yet to come.

THERE'S GOLD, for instance. Old-timers swear that an Indian once hid a fortune in gold dust in a tunnel dug beneath what is now one of the main streets of town. Other residents remember stories of a bank clerk who became wedged in a sewer in one of the ravines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—(BUP)—Deaf since early childhood, Gretna Smith, 18, has succeeded in becoming a professional dancer by "feeling" music vibrations through her hands and feet.

As a child, handicapped by not being able to hear music, she soon astonished her teachers by dancing with perfect rhythm on the school stage.

After appearing in numerous dance routines throughout the country, including featured night club roles, and several movies, as well as more than 200 U. S. O. shows, she is currently engaged at a local night club.

Fish Swim From Vessel to Can

PORTLAND, Me. Jan. 10 (BUP)—A way to make fish "swim" directly from the fishing boats almost into the can is being tried out here.

Through the use of a special rubber hose designed by B. F. Goodrich engineers, a casing company transports the fish from the hold of a ship into the cannery. The fish move in water during the entire trip through the six-inch diameter hose.

Unloading operations which formerly required six hours now are completed in less than an hour. A 45-ton cargo recently was transferred from boat to storage in 30 minutes.

The fish are aided in their "swim" through the hose by a 30 horsepower pump creating 12 pounds of pressure.

Many Expect New War in 25 Years

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(BUP)—Twenty-four per cent of a cross-section of the nation's urban population believed there would be another war in 25 years, a poll disclosed in a poll taken last October.

The survey, taken by the Psychological Corporation, said 56 per cent of those who believed there would be another war thought it would involve Russia and the United States. Only 19 per cent thought there would be lasting peace.

The report issued that in February, 1942, after the attack on Pearl Harbor, a similar poll said they thought there would be another war.

The corporation said its poll questioned 5,000 persons in 124 cities and towns.

The minimum in risk a man can take is 10c.

Urge Improvement Of Grain Varieties

SASKATON (CP).—Plant breeders have entered the third phase of activity in developing new strains. Dr. C. H. Coulson of the Dominion Plant Research Institute, Winnipeg, told the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Seed Growers' association here.

The first phase was producing early maturing cereal varieties and the second was developing resistance to disease. The third phase is one in which plant breeders would have to consider giving more attention to variety improvement rather than to producing new varieties, Dr. Coulson said.

"More attention must be given to the development of varieties for particular purposes."

He advocated greater teamwork among breeders to overcome technical difficulties and added: "If we do not breed varieties with greater and with different types of resistance, we will again be having epidemics of stem and leaf rust within 10 or 15 years."

Among objectives in breeding for special purposes, he mentioned wheat to be harvested by combine, wheat to be harvested by hand, and wheat to be harvested with a variety of grain and control weeds, while wheat for crop rotation, perennial winter wheat.

Clyde Workers Call Strike on Saturday

GLASGOW, Ontario—Eighty thousand Clyde shipyard workers will be involved in a token strike Saturday in support of a five-day walk of 44 hours, which was called at meetings. The strike will mean work on ships at the Clyde and the Ayrshire coast probably will be brought to a standstill.

Most of European Nations Suffer from Coal Shortage

LONDON—As bitterly cold weather covered all Europe Friday, most of the war ravaged countries of the western half of the continent were trying desperately to ward off a coal famine.

There has been widespread disruption of industry as factories have closed down so fuel could be diverted to civilian consumers. Countries like France and Austria have been badly hit, but the British Isles, while others like Belgium and Holland are relatively better off although existing on a "hand-to-mouth" basis.

Here, country by country, is a picture of the grim situation, starting with the "black" areas.

Germany (British zone).—Most factories have closed down indefinitely because of the acute coal shortage. Hamburg is faced with economic paralysis through the closing of non-priority factories. Half the city is deprived daily of power from 7:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m. All cinemas and places of entertainment are closed. Deliveries have ceased unless there is a hand-to-mouth basis.

Austria.—All heavy industries in Vienna have been ordered to cease work until Jan. 20.

Italy.—Power for most industries is cut off two days a week. In north Italy work has been cut in half. In the south, electricity at work can keep going until the end of January with emergency services.

France.—Degradee needs another million tons of coal. All non-essential industries were closed over Christmas with essential industries, including railways, being restricted to 25 per cent of normal production. They were allowed to resume operations this week.

Switzerland.—Imports of coal are down to a quarter of normal supplies while hydro electric power production has dropped because of drought having dried reservoirs of hydro stations.

Belgium.—Relatively better off for coal than Britain, the home-hold ration of five hundredweight a month per family has not had to be reduced.

Holland.—Coal production now reaching 80 per cent of pre-war. Industries on the whole is well supplied although private consumers are restricted to 15 hundredweight per the entire winter.

Norway.—Reasonably well off although household needs must be met entirely from gas and wood. Priority for coal is given to export industries.

Sweden.—"Fairly-tale" towns are abate with lights. Last winter and not winter restrictions have been lifted.

Ask Churches End Class Distinction

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (AP).—The Christian church must abandon class distinction if it is to maintain its traditional championship of human rights, a special committee of protestant churches said at the annual meeting of the Home Missions Council of North America.

The committee, describing as "revolutionary" its 78-page document, prepared for the council representing 23 major Protestant denominations, termed the position of group and race relations "one of the most serious and ethical issues of our day."

The statement said that "in considering the 'imperative' in developing the future of racial distinction in the United States and in Canada."

1. "The full influence of the church shall be exerted to secure the eradication of racial segregation and discrimination."

2. "All religious or other missionary enterprises now organized on a basis of segregation should be re-examined."

3. "The church at large should be summoned to accept the principle of ministry to all peoples irrespective of race or social status."

4. "The church should be encouraged in inter-racial activities and associations should be promoted."

5. "Special study should be devoted to the destruction of the ministry of the church among any groups or types of population now inadequately reached."

6. "Home mission forces should join with civil forces in positive measures to relieve tensions and to promote mutual understanding and good will among all races and groups."

New Plants Give Jobs in Britain

LONDON (CP).—Efforts to reduce unemployment in areas where the war was most prevalent before the Second World War by bringing in new secondary industries seem to be getting results.

On the basis of construction costs, more than half of all new factory buildings planned for the United Kingdom is taking place in these depressed districts which have lost one-sixth of the country's or local working population.

Between the wars, unemployment was most serious in regions dependent on the coal and iron industries, and from in South Wales, shipbuilding in Scotland, for example, one industry subject to maintained export demand, such as cotton in Lancashire.

Even now, when the United Kingdom has an open market for all sorts of manpower, there are pockets of unemployment in these districts. The government's plan to bring a better-balanced economy.

But because of construction delays, short-term projects must be provided to give work to the jobless and reduce unemployment. The project is to build a new bridge across the Severn river to link north Wales with Bristol, the home of the steel industry.

U.K.-Danish Trade Slowed by Prices

LONDON (CP).—While Denmark is prepared to buy immense quantities of British goods, and Britain wants large supplies of Danish food, commerce between the two countries are becoming increasingly difficult.

Recent negotiations at Copenhagen indicated the Danes feel Britain should pay higher prices for food while the British feel that the accumulation of Danish kroner in payment for manufactured goods is not useful unless the Danes are prepared to supply more material goods.

British needs "hard" currencies—Canadian and United States dollars—because most of her purchases must be made in North America where the dollar is in high demand.

The dominion, notably Canada, are impatient because they are producing and selling products in Britain at prices the Danes think too low. The argument is that slightly lower than prevailing world prices should be accepted by sellers in return for the security of long-term contracts, and this viewpoint has been accepted by Canada and other dominions.

Find Father Tried Kill 2 Sons, Self

MONTREAL, C.P. A father who allegedly attempted to commit suicide and take the lives of his two sons at the same time was convicted Thursday of attempted murder.

The accused, Louis Lebel, will be sentenced at the end of the court of King's Bench term.

Constable Daniel Couture testified he was called to Lebel's residence April 4 and found the father and the son, Jean Charles, 21, and Andre, 19, on the floor, almost asphyxiated. A note, allegedly written by Lebel, said in part: "I am taking the two boys with me."

Lebel, who was not represented by counsel, said he had been drinking the previous night. He said he did not remember what happened and did not recognize his signature on the note.
